Ask Audrey

Dear Audrey,

I have a friend who is trying to decide which of two guys to pursue romantically. Neither one is good for her. Both have histories of treating their girlfriends poorly. How do I tell her without risking her friendship?

-Wanting to do the right thing

Dear Wanting to do the right thing,

This question, I'm sure, is asked a lot. The first thing your friend needs to realize is that she should get to know each guy first, just to know what they're about. If you know something that she should be concerned about, tell her. She'll respect you more for telling her the truth.

Love Always,
Audrey
