

Meet The Freshmen

Above: This week's featured freshmen are Amanda Paulson, Tiffany Heitz, Jon Orr, Maggie Seibert and Austin Knake.
by Felicia Harbach

Folks, here it is our last batch of freshmen for the first quarter of the 2004-2005 school year. My, my how the school year has flown by already we are half-way through the first semester!!! Can you believe it?

Joining us this week is Austin Knake, Jon Orr, Tiffany Heitz, Amanda Paulson, and Maggie Seibert. High school is a new experience, so here is what they think of high school. Austin, hard but not. Jon, thought it is a lot better than middle school. Tiffany thinks it's really fun. Amanda honestly thought that high school was going to be a lot harder than what it is. Maggie thinks it is much more exciting and active than middle school.

This week we have something new, not many sports participants. Our fine arts department is fairly represented. Austin plans to be on the wrestling and golf teams. Jon is in football, will be in wrestling and track, and will try out for the spring play. Tiffany is in the musical, band and choir. Amanda is out for basketball cheerleading, choir, and wants to try out for the spring play. Maggie is in the musical, drill team, and vocal jazz, and also wishes to go out for the spring play.

It is yet again a freshman consensus on their favorite privilege- the food. Also something else they enjoy is the more options in extra-cirrcular activites.

Austin's big sis is none other than that well rounded Miranda Knake, who is a junior. Jon's older sisters have both already graduated, Tiffany is the oldest sibling, along with Amanda, and Maggie's older sister is Laura Seibert also a fellow junior classmate of Miranda.

FAVE CLASSES

Algebra, Art, Band/Choir (especially band), Math, Spanish

Hall Smarts

by Aaron Dunham

This week for Hall Smarts I went back to asking the obvious stupid questions. This week's blissful contestants were Dustin Dettbarn, Mike Salow, Felicia Harbach and Eric Fonck.
