

Meet The Freshmen

by Felicia Harbach

Another quarter has started and another set of freshman to meet. This week we have Kim Koopman, Brett Krapfl, Rachel Huber, Amy Whitman and Jeff Sands.

First thoughts of high school can now be a better question now that we have gotten a good start into the year. Kim now realizes that high school isn't as bad as she thought. "I like it." Brett had a single word to sum up his thoughts: "fun." Rachel seemed to be on the same wavelength, thinking of high school as "exciting." Amy agrees with Rachel that high school is exciting, but "a little nerve racking at first." Jeff likes the fact that this more to do than middle school and it's "more interesting."

Probably things that make life more exciting is the fact we can make many different choices as we grow older. Activities is one thing in high school that has more options than middle school. You have the option of which one to go out for and you also have the decision not to do any extra-curricular activities. Let's see what our freshmen think. Kim, "none-maybe cheer-leading." Brett, "track or golf." Rachel, "volleyball, basketball, track." Amy, "volleyball, basketball, track." Jeff, "football, wrestling, baseball, and band."

Along with more choices, comes more privileges. Gum chewing and more food at lunch seems to rank high in the freshmen popularity status. Some other things were also mentioned this week that no one else has thought to mention. Pep rallies, pizza day (compliments of Mr. Kuehl), more football games, and homecoming activities.

Older siblings seem to run in this bunch.. Kim has two step-sisters and a step-brother. Brett has a younger brother. Rachel owned up to having an older brother, Brett. Amy doesn't have any. Jeff's older brother is Brent and is a junior.

Hall Smarts

by Aaron Dunham

This week on my quest to find ignorance I asked common sense questions to Andy Reittinger, Michelle Tumey, Audrey Salow, and Cody Recker.

1. How many different colors are on a Rubic's Cube?
Andy- 6
Michelle- 4 (How many sides does a cube have?)
Audrey- 6
Cody- 6
Answer: 6
2. What is the square root of 3 squared?
Andy- 3
Michelle- 3
Audrey-3
Cody- 3
Answer:3 (I'm glad that you all know math)
3. What river separates Texas and Mexico?
Andy- Rio Grande
Michelle- Rio Grande
Audrey- Rio Grande
Cody- Rio Grande
Answer: Rio Grande
4. How many letters are in the alphabet?
Andy- 26
Michelle- 26
Audrey- 26
Cody- 26
Answer: 26 (PLEASE! Someone get something wrong)
5. What is the capital of Japan?
Andy- Nagasaki
Michelle- Tokyo
Audrey- Tokyo
Cody- Tokyo
Answer: Tokyo

Congratulations Audrey and Cody. You tied for first with 5 points each. Enjoy your 11 or so seconds in the sun. This week made me mad. Furious!! It is so much easier to write something funny when everyone doesn't know the answers. THANKS A LOT!!!
