

Ask Audrey

Dear Audrey,

I have a problem. Two girls want me. One broke up with her boyfriend to go out with me. I like both of them equally. How do I decide which one to pursue? They don't go to M.V. but they both attend the same school. I don't want to hurt either one.

-Man in Need of Help

Dear Man In Need of Help,

I'm glad you asked this question, it's not everyday you meet a guy who's not afraid to talk about his problems. Anyways what I would do in this situation is to really get to know each person because one of them could have this amazingly annoying habit that you don't know about. And if that doesn't work, just stay single, I mean, that way you can still flirt with both of them.

Love Always,
Audrey
