Service projects make the world a better place

Last week was National Volunteer Week, and MV students jumped on board. Students worked in various locations in Delhi, Hopkinton and Earlville under the direction of city workers and volunteers.

Students raked leaves, bagged them, and picked up garbage around the track, at cemeteries, at Lenox College, and at area parks.

Administrators were pleased with the project. "I thought it was awesome," stated Mr. Kudrna. "My group of kids were great and we got a lot accomplished."

"All of the feedback that I have gotten from folks from each community has been extremely positive," stated Mr. Tuetken.

Mr. Tuetken said that a suggestion had been made to do this project again before school gets out. He added, "Obviously we cannot."

Suggestions have been made for improvement: have water available at all sites, have better estimates about the manpower needed and how long each task will take, and bring gloves and a first aid kit.

Sternhagen, LaGrant bring home medals

The golf team recently competed against North Linn and fell to talented East Buchanan teams 211-166 for the boys and 259-251 for the girls.

The boys scores were: Dylan Salow-45; Jordy Downs-53; Steve Huber-56; Riley Kloser-57; Jordan Schindler-57; Logan Fronatt-67. For the JV team, scores were Mitch Stender-60; Cole Willenbring-66,

The girls scores were Riley Sternhagen-55; Emily LaGrant-56; Shaylyn Trenkamp-73; Megan McNamara-75. Sternhagen was the runner-up medalist.

"This was a great measuring stick for us as a team competing against one of the best teams in the state," stated Coach Andrews. "I feel this meet showed the team that even though we have had some success already this year, we have a lot of work to do if we want to finish towards the top of the conference in May. The weather could not have been any better for us. Just one of those days where the results weren't where we wanted them to be. Hopefully with more and more golf played over the next couple weeks our scores become more and more consistent."

Tuesday night the teams played against Alburnett in Center Point. The Pirates won both the boys and girls meets, 191-213 and 238-262, respectively.

Boys result: Steve Huber 52; Riley Kloser 53; Jordan Schindler 54; Jordy Downs 54; Logan Fronatt 57; Mitch Stender 71. JV scores were: Cole Willenbring 60; Nate Lansing 64.

For the girls team: Emily LaGrant 50; Riley Sternhagen 58; Shaylyn Trenkamp 83; Megan McNamara 71. Emily LaGrant was the medalist.

"It was a very cold and windy night at Rolling Acres," stated Coach Andrews. "It was good to see Emily come away with medalist honors and come away with a 50 and see Riley in the 50's as well. I thought the boys did well for the conditions and having never golfed there before. Overall I was ok with the scores given the conditions but hopefully the wind will die down for us in the coming meets before conference and sectionals so our teams can gain confidence with lower scores."

Duotastic

"To be yourself in a world that is constant ly trying to make you someone else is the greatest accomplishment." ~ Ralph Waldo Emerson

This quote is among my favorite of Emerson's. It holds so much truth and importance. I've found this in the past few years from personal experience.

Just the other day, someone in my class made the remark to me, "It's like you try to be different. . . and it makes others feel kind of awkward."

I will be honest: the way the comment was said hurt me a little bit. Did this person have any idea how much I would have given in junior high to fit in? Does this person have any idea how much I yearn to feel comfortable in my own skin amongst my peers even now? We live in a world full of bandwagons and there's no room for me on them.

However, the fact that I have no room on these bandwagons means that I am putting genuine effort into being myself. I pride myself on this. My personality doesn't fit on the bandwagon that most others ride to parties, dates, and the popular stores. While they all go and do their thing, I am just as happy spending my time at camp, bell choir, and youth group and doing my shopping at Walmart or a secondhand store. That's just who I am. While others my age are in love with attention and status, I'm pretty happy with my own simplicity. Some of them have hundreds upon hundreds of friends on Facebook and numerous other social media sites. While I have a Facebook account to keep in touch with people I've met at the events I've gone to, I am more than satisfied with my single digit number of close friends.

Perhaps all of this does make other people feel awkward, but I'm just trying to be comfortable being me. . . like anyone should. The way I see it, this will all be extremely helpful next year when I leave everything and everyone I've ever known back home and have to make new friends. Of course I'll stay in touch with my home community, but there will still be a transition. . . like there will be for the rest of the class of 2015. This being so, I have a question for everyone riding a bandwagon: what is going to happen next year when your life hits the roadside bomb of move-in day, whether it be at college, your new job, or the military, and the bandwagon that has carried you so far is no more? You'll have to pick yourself up and start over. You'll have to actually create yourself, find who you're meant to be. During this, you can't worry about what anyone says. You just have to find what's right for you and -- like Emerson said -- once you do this, it will truly be your greatest accomplishment.

Fine Artists of the Week

Name: Mikaela Reth Activity: Spring play

Which one-act play are you in? What's your role?

I play Jessie in Selfie.

I enjoy the small cast and how the play differs from a conventional production.

How is this play/role different than any other one you've been a part of?

She is very much a real, relatable character. I've been able to connect pieces of myself with her more than I have with any other I've portrayed before.

What will audiences enjoy most about this show?

I believe they will enjoy how powerful so little can be.

STUDENTS OF THE WEEK

Clint Krapfl & Alec McDowell

You recently helped pour concrete around the seating near the baseball diamond. Why did you help with it?

Clint: I helped because the project will really help our baseball facility. I also helped because it's part of our baseball field and we need to keep it looking nice and appreciate our quality facilities.

Alec: It was the right thing to do.

What was the most fun part of the proj-

Clint: Being with Alec and Jacob (Coyle) and having a little fun.

Alec: Hanging out with Jacob and Cliff.

Why is it important for other students to step up and help in volunteer projects?

Clint: It's important because we need to take care of the sports facilities that we have. It's also important because we can give back with simple volunteer works.

Alec: So that they can give back and help their community.

by Angie Wilson Life's a Dance

SO! PROM!

Yeah...prom is tomorrow people! There are so many crazy things going on!

He is completely right. I guess in life we get so caught up and living it perfectly that we forget the importance of it. We forget the things that we take for granted everyday. But life is a dance and we will learn as we go. Sometimes you look like and idiot but sure are having fun! So enjoy the main things at prom and live in the moment because before long it will all be over.

Do's and Don'ts of Prom

by Shaylyn Trenkamp

This week is pretty special. Why, you may ask? Earth Day? The sophomore career fair? Nope, I'm talking about prom. Now, I myself am a first-timer this year, but with some help from some veteran prom-attendees and some research, I have put together some advice for having the best of times at Prom 2k15 and some tips for being prepared for next year.

Do go all out. Buy a dress that makes you feel beautiful, ask your girlfriend in an adorable way, get your nails done, buy new shoes etc.

OR

Don't. Sometimes prom can be overdone and there is pressure to join the craze, but you don't have to. If your date doesn't ask you in the cutest way humanly possible, it's not the end of the world. And if someone else paid three times as much for their dress, that doesn't mean yours is any worse.

Do (try your best to) have a good time. That's what prom is for, man. Don't get caught up in the drama or stress over the imperfections. It's just not worth it.

Don't sit on the sidelines all night. It's PROM for cake's sake. :)

Do DANCE. Don't worry about how you'll look or who's looking at you; the only thing you should worry about it having a good time. So dance your heart out.

Don't forget to get a million pictures as a memory of such an amazing night.

Fine Arts Boosters make donation

The Fine Arts Boosters recently purchased stage blocks and risers for the speech and drama department.

The equipment will be used in plays and in contest speech in categories such as choral reading, readers theatre and one-act play. They are currently part of the set for the one-act play Selfie.

The equipment cost $3000.

Mr. DeVore said the efforts of the Fine Arts Boosters benefit the students. "These individuals truly have the students' best interests at heart. This core unit of caring individuals want to keep the speech and drama department on the right track and headed in a positive direction. They want the students to have the best equipment possible."

The risers and stage blocks that the MV Fine Arts Boosters purchased for the speech and drama department will be utilized in many ways. They replace heavy, worn, wooden boxes.

A meow to the Fine Arts Boosters for all they do to support our talented performers.

A meow to the MV Athletic Boosters for their tremendous work as well. A special meow goes out to the crew who maintains the MV Athletic Boosters Facebook page. If you haven't "friended" them yet, you should. They post the week's schedule as well as amazing photos!

A meow to the junior class and the junior parents for all they've done to make Saturday's event special. It's all about experiences, folks!

A meow to our athletes who are excelling. When you read the sports stories, you'll notice MV had some top finishers and improved scores and times. Rock on!

A furball to the lack of juniors showing up for prom decorating and play cast members for set building.

A meow to Español III for their final episodio.

This week's Hall Smarts is all about the popular Spanish program. The contestants are Kara Orcutt, Lucas Rickels, Tony Thompson (and friends) and Ben Thompson.

1) Where is the Spanish trip?

Kara: Mexico Lucas: Mexico Tony: Mexico Ben: Mexico A: Mexico

2) There used to be two languages taught here. Spanish and what?

Kara: German Lucas: German Tonv: German Ben: German A: German

3) What Spanish book do the seniors read?

Kara: No clue

Lucas: Something in Spanish

Tony: Don Quijote Ben: Don Juan A: Don Juan

4) What does berenjena mean?
